COIN.—Code, Art. 30, sec. 28.<sup>8</sup>

CONFESSION OF CRIME.—All those who in their examination own themselves guilty of a felony alleged against them, and are charged in the mitimus with the felony so confessed, seem to be excluded from bail, for bail is only proper when it stands indifferent whether the party be guilty or innocent. The Statute expressly mentions manifest offences, 2 Inst. 189.

COUNTERFEITING the King's seal, &c., see Forgery, Code, Art. 30, sec. 26.<sup>9</sup>

DUELLING.—Code, Art. 30, secs. 43-45.<sup>10</sup>

EMBEZZLING.—Code, Art. 30, secs. 46-49.<sup>11</sup>

ESCAPES.—Where the escape is effected by the party himself, although the offence may have been originally bailable, he will have forfeited his right to bail for having committed the additional transgression, which will create a presumption of his guilt. Where it is effected by a third party it amounts to the same species of crime as that for which the principal was confined, and the question whether the party aiding the escape is entitled or not to be bailed will of course depend on the crime with which that principal is charged; see Stat. 1 E. 2, St. 2; 2 Inst. 188; 1 Hale P. C. 102; 2 Hale P. C. 133; Code, Art. 30, sec. 51.<sup>12</sup>

FORGERY.—At common law forgery was a misdemeanor and therefore bailable, but the greater number of forgeries are now felonies, Code, Art. 30, secs. 24, 25, 29-37.<sup>13</sup>

*FUGITIVE CONVICTS.—Any fugitive convict escaping to this State shall 60 be deemed a fugitive felon, and being convicted by a duly authenticated record of the Court of the State, in which his conviction took place, shall be sentenced to the penitentiary for the residue of the term for which he was convicted, but is to be delivered up on demand, Code, Art. 30, sec. 55.<sup>14</sup>

HORSE-STEALING.—Code, Art. 30, sec. 68.<sup>15</sup> Cattle and sheep stealing are also felonies.

HOUSE-BREAKING.—Code, Art. 30, secs. 22, 23.<sup>16</sup>

HUE AND CRY.—2 Inst. 188.

KIDNAPPING.—Code, Art. 30, secs. 92, 93; 1867, ch. 179.<sup>17</sup>
